

Reich Leaders Incited Japan To War, Allies Inform Court

By WES GALLAGHER
Nurnberg, Nov. 26 (AP)—Evidence designed to show that German leaders incited Japan to make the attack on Pearl Harbor was placed before the International War Crimes tribunal today by American prosecutors.

The documents were added by the tribunal to the mounting pile of Hitler's war plans which included cold-blooded schemes to assassinate the German envoy in Prague as a pretext for invasion of Czechoslovakia, to overrun Poland, seize the low countries and, ultimately, to attack Russia.

American prosecutors in the trial of 20 leading Nazis produced stenographic notes of talks between Hitler and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka several months before the Pearl Harbor attack and asserted that "our evidence will show these Nazi conspirators incited and kept up a force that could reasonably be expected to result in war with the United States."

Red War For Food
Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman produced a memorandum signed by a German General Thomas saying that war with Russia was necessary to provide food for the German army. Alderman charged the German high command's plan to systematically starve millions of Russians in occupied areas as "one of the most sinister on record."

A detailed plot to assassinate a German diplomat to create an "incident" calculated to result in invasion of Czechoslovakia was made by Hitler and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command in 1938 Alderman charged.

The tribunal adjourned for the day at 4:28 p. m. (10:28 p. m. EST). Joachim von Ribbentrop, former German foreign minister, was described as suffering lapses in memory.

"Shattered Nerves"
Ribbentrop, appearing ill and haggard at the opening of the second week of the trial in which he and 19 other top Hitler leaders are being tried on war crime charges, asked through his counsel that two former German ambassadors be subpoenaed to assist in his defense.

Ribbentrop has been taking "sleeping drops" and his "memory has suffered," his counsel said. This was the third claim of shattered nerves among the score of "supermen" who once ruled Germany.

The court was expected soon to decide on the amnesia claim of Hitler's deputy Rudolf Hess, already has ruled that Jew-baiter Julius Streicher is sane and must stand trial.

No plea was made today to excuse Ribbentrop from trial but Fritz Sauter, Ribbentrop's counsel, said he needed to refresh his client's memory with testimony concerning Reich foreign policy before and during the war.

"Is Very Anxious"
The former foreign minister has aged noticeably since the trial began last Tuesday. Sauter said Ribbentrop was "very anxious" about the trial proceedings.

Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman told the court that two more days would be spent detailing the record of German aggressive war and that he would follow with evidence on other counts of the indictment. Additional U. S. evidence will be entered in conjunction with British presentation of the case next week, he said.

NO RUSH HERE TO STOCK MEAT

However much satisfaction might have accompanied the lifting of rationing Saturday on meats and fats, there was no great surge of buying in Gettysburg, most dealers reported today.

Meat retailers have had good supplies of almost all cuts, except pork, for the past several weeks, they said. There was no unusual demand for meats, however, except in the case of steaks and some cuts which have required a higher number of ration points.

But to most meat dealers, it was just another, and normal, Saturday. "We had one customer who came in and bought steaks which he said he hadn't tasted for weeks," one dealer reported. "This was true in other instances. People have had the money, but they haven't had the points," he added.

Some dealers thought that buying might have been influenced somewhat by the Thanksgiving holiday. This was particularly true on Friday, when many tables displayed meals prepared from Thanksgiving left-overs, they pointed out.

There were sighs of relief, both from stores and shippers, at the end of rationing. Both have regarded the use of points as necessary but "inconvenient." They are glad that it is a thing of the past.

THREE INJURED, FIVE ARRESTED IN AUTO MISHAPS

Three persons were injured in week-end accidents which resulted in damage of more than $600 to cars involved. Charges were filed against five persons.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder this morning on four charges, Lacy Brown, Renick, W. Va., was committed to jail in default of $500 bail, after signing a plea of guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was held for the next term of court.

This charge and three others were preferred by Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster after an automobile driven, Harpster said, by Brown, had struck a car on East Middle street and then careened through a fence at the end of East Middle street into a field Saturday evening.

Brown pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving without an operator's license. He was fined $25 and costs on a hit and run charge, for striking an automobile owned by Michael Tate and his mother, Mrs. Ruth Tate, 124 East Middle street, while the car was parked in front of the Tate home. A fourth charge, of being drunk and disorderly on North Washington street after the accident, resulted in a fine of $5 and costs.

Robert Snedegar, Dover R. 1, York county, owner of a panel truck driven by Brown, was charged with permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his vehicle, and was fined $25 and costs. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly on East Middle street and was fined $5 and costs.

Struck Freight Car
Borough police said that after driving off the road into the field, Brown got out of the car, walked back, and attempted to get a tow car to pull Snedegar's truck out of the field. He then tried to buy a bus ticket to Hagerstown, police said, and created a disturbance at the bus depot. Damage to the Tate automobile was placed at $12.

Leo Perrell Myers, 19, of 703 Carlisle street, Hanover, suffered head injuries and a cut on his left eyelid when his automobile ran into a freight car on the Western Maryland Railroad crossing at Bittinger, two miles north of Hanover, on the New Oxford-Hanover road, at 8:15 o'clock Saturday night, state police reported. The freight train, police said, was stopped by the derailment of three cars. Myers ran into the side of a coal car.

As the result of an accident at 9:35 p. m. Saturday, at the intersection of Locust and Railroad streets, East Berlin, a motor violation charge will be filed by state police with Justice of the Peace Charles F. Wolfe against Eugene E. Sowers, 22, of East Berlin R. 2.

Sowers, state police said, was driving south on Railroad street and cut the corner, Franklin Gruver, 26, of East Berlin R. 3, driving west on Locust street, ran into Sowers' car. Clarion Sowers, father of the driver, suffered a chest injury and possible cracked rib, and Gruver had cuts on his left leg. Both were attended by Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin. Damage to the Sowers car was placed at $150 and to the Gruver car $200.

Charge To Be Filed
A charge of improper overtaking of another automobile will be filed with Justice of the Peace John Dubbs, Hanover, against William Miller, 25, of 280 Third street, Hanover, as the result of an accident at 2 a. m. Saturday on route 94 a mile north of Hanover. Miller's front bumper struck the rear bumper of a car operated by Cyril J. Hockensmith, 24, of Hanover, when the former attempted to pass the Hockensmith car. Miller lost control and hit a pole. Two persons riding with Miller were treated at the Hanover hospital.

An unidentified motorist struck the automobile of John Grindler, 51 West Stevens street at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night, borough police said. The hubcap from a 1940 or 1941 Chevrolet was found at the scene of the accident.

A charge of driving without an operator's license will be placed against Francis Fogle, Aspers R. 1, borough police said. Fogle ran into the car of Earl E. Panybaker, Hal-lam, York county, damaging a fender and rear wheel.

$301,224 Short In Bond Drive

Adams county is $301,224.25 short of its quota of bonds to individuals in the Victory Loan drive, Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the county War Finance Committee, announced today.

Of the E bond quota the county is $215,349.25 short. Sales of E bonds this morning totaled $134,650.75. The quota is $350,000.

Sales of all types of bonds to individuals total $588,775.75 with only one issuing agency unreported. The quota is $890,000.

The active portion of the drive closes December 9 and local observers are hopeful that the quota in both brackets will be achieved in the county before that date.

Many of the volunteer workers in the women's division have not reported the results of their efforts thus far and they are being urged to complete their work and submit reports before December 8.

HEAD OF BOYS TOWN RETURNS TO THE MOUNT

Baltimore, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Edward J. Flanagan of Boys Town returned last week to the beginning of the trail that led him to national fame.

That beginning was Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, where, for the first time in 40 years, Msgr. Flanagan was able to spend a full day last week.

The familiar surroundings of his alma mater set loose a flood of reminiscences as the mentor of Boys Town recalled vividly his first two days as a teen-aged student, fresh from Roscommon county, Ireland.

Saved Father's Life
He learned to swim that first day in 1904—very quickly. A schoolmate had shoved him into the pool.

"I learned to swim because I had to," Father Flanagan recalled. To that first day at Mt. St. Mary's he attributed his ability to save his father's life from drowning later. His father, John Flanagan, was 75 years old when the incident occurred on a fishing trip.

Father Flanagan recalled his second day at Mt. St. Mary's just as vividly. When a schoolmate challenged him to a fight in the gym, the youngster from Ireland proved himself a willing mixer. The battle lasted four hours, Father Flanagan remembered, and his opponent spent the following week in bed.

"I was in worse shape than he was," said the priest, "and the only reason I didn't go to bed, too, was because I was new in this country and too green to know that I should have."

Father Flanagan remembered another, more meditative phase of his student life. It was a walk of a mile or more to the grove atop one of the Blue Ridge peaks about a mile from the campus.

Guest of Msgr. Sheridan
In 1938, his alma mater awarded him an honorary doctor of laws degree in recognition of his work for homeless boys at Boys Town, Nebraska.

He was the luncheon guest Monday of the president of the college, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan. Later he spoke to seminary students. Father Flanagan made his present trip in connection with the scheduled appearance of his undefeated boys town football team Sunday against the Loyola high school in Baltimore stadium.

Court Refuses New Trial In Fraud Case

Harvey S. Zimmerman of Allentown, convicted at the last session of Franklin county criminal court of two charges of obtaining money under false pretense, was denied new trials in an opinion handed down by Judge Watson R. Davison Saturday morning at the regular Saturday morning session of court in Chambersburg.

Charged in two counts with illegally obtaining more than $1,000 from Frank B. Elliott, aged farmer of near Greencastle, Zimmerman appealed for arrest of judgment and for new trials following his conviction. Judge Davison over-ruled the appeal for arrest of judgment and refused the new-trial pleas. Zimmerman has been held in the county jail since his arrest early this year.

The November grand jury in Adams county indicted Zimmerman on several charges of fraud in which he obtained several thousand dollars from a lower Adams county farmer. Zimmerman and a confederate are to be brought here for trial after they complete their terms in the Franklin county prison.

MISS DALEY IS WED SUNDAY TO W. M. JACKSON

The double ring ceremony of the Lutheran church was used at the marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon of Miss Elizabeth Trimmer Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde P. Daley, 36 East Lincoln avenue, and Webster Miner Jackson, son of Mrs. Mary Jackson, Norwood, R. I.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Before double windows banked with palms, ferns and baskets of white pom-poms and chrysanthemums, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street-length light blue wool dress and carried a white leather-bound Bible, topped by a white orchid with flowing white satin streamers.

She also played the traditional wedding processional and recessional. Mrs. C. T. Ziegler sang "Because," "O Promise Me," and "O Perfect Love," the wedding hymn.

TWO SCHOOLS EXCEED QUOTA IN BOND DRIVE

Pupils at the Meade and High street schools in Gettysburg have gone "over the top" in the Victory Loan campaign, Miss N. Louise Ramer, educational chairman for the Gettysburg public schools, announced today.

The High street pupils almost doubled their quota with two weeks of the drive remaining. With a quota of $525 the High street school pupils turned in sales of $913.80, oversubscribing the quota by almost $400.

The quota at the Meade school was $1,508, and sales thus far in the drive total $1,725.75. The school expects to top the $2,000 mark before the close of the drive.

$41,251 In Sales
Total sales in all public schools is $41,251.30 tabulated at the close of school sessions last Wednesday, just before the Thanksgiving holiday.

High school students sold $28,505.70 of their $36,000 quota. Reports from that building indicate that the students will reach their quota before the close of the drive December 9.

Lincoln school pupils have almost reached their quota of $12,000 with sales of $10,106.50.

Every school in town has over-subscribed its quota in all previous bond drives and Miss Ramer and the teachers who are cooperating with her committee expressed confidence that the students will again go "over the top" in the eighth and final Victory Loan campaign.

An intensive effort is being made to have every school student in town complete the filling of his or her stampbook and convert them into bonds before the close of the drive. There are hundreds of unfilled stamp books and pupils are being urged to fill them before the close of the Victory Loan drive.

PAY TRIBUTE TO PFC. M'ILHENNY AT SERVICE HERE

Tribute was paid to the memory of James H. McIlhenny, Gettysburg soldier who was killed in infantry action in the Siegfried line last March 22, at a memorial service Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church here where McIlhenny had been a member from boyhood.

The service was conducted by a former pastor of the local church, the Rev. Seth C. Morrow, now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Pottsville. More than 150 friends and relatives of the family attended.

The service was brief and simple, beginning with an organ prelude by Mrs. John E. Sanderson, the church organist and including besides the words of tribute by the Rev. Mr. Morrow, opening and closing prayers, Scripture reading and the reading of several appropriate poems. A solo "Spirit of God" was sung by Dr. Frederick Tilberg of Gettysburg.

Was Attacking Pillox
In the course of his remarks, Mr. Morrow told briefly of the circumstances under which Pfc. McIlhenny, 33-year-old son of Mrs. H. M. McIlhenny, 430 Carlisle street, was killed.

His company of the 411th Infantry regiment had been assigned to take a concrete pillbox atop a steep hill two miles inside Germany after a swift 20-mile advance that began March 15. The company attacked for two days with heavy casualties. Because the terrain was hilly and wooded, artillery support was not effective and tanks could not reach that sector.

On the third day of the attack (March 22), McIlhenny's squad was able to get much closer to the pillbox than before. The account of the action given by the squad leader and quoted by the speaker stated that the local soldier was one of three closest to the pillbox. When the enemy fire became intense, he was one of the last to withdraw and it was then that he was fatally wounded by machinegun fire. The family has been notified by the War department that Pfc. McIlhenny is buried at Bensheim, Germany.

Comrade's Tribute
"The sacrifice of our friend was completely voluntary and therefore the most worthy of all sacrifices," Mr. Morrow said.

He continued: "I know it is not necessary to extol him, for his life among you who knew him so well speaks for itself. Nevertheless his military record reveals that he was as strong in combat as we knew him to be in private life. He was the Browning Automatic Rifleman in his squad. The leader of his squad said: 'Any infantryman will tell you that it's the toughest job in the army. But Mac never complained.'"

"This soldier comrade who was by his side at the end goes on to say, 'We never discussed religion, but Mac's refraining from coarse language gave us a good picture of what he was like morally. My attempt to be something like him made me a better man. I readily say that I respected 'him more than any other man I met in combat.' Is there a greater tribute to a friend? James McIlhenny met the test of combat."

There were baskets of flowers in the church for the memorial service from the board of trustees of the church of which Pfc. McIlhenny was a member; from the Service committee of the church, the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and relatives.

Hull Asserts Japs Wanted War Despite Peace Offer

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Cordell Hull declared today that the Japanese were "hell-bent" for war in November, 1941, and rejected a 10-point American note he said any peace-seeking nation would have been "delighted to accept."

The 74-year-old former Secretary of State, testifying before a Senate-House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster, said the November 26 note he handed the Japanese had been "ignorantly misrepresented."

Japanese propagandists later called it an American "ultimatum." The Army Pearl Harbor Board said in its report Hull's delivery of the note may have started the war.

"There has been more misinformation and more ignorant misrepresentation—unintentional, no doubt—about the significance of this last proposal of ours than of any move we made," Hull testified.

Benefits To Japan
"There was nothing there that any peaceful nation would not have been delighted to accept."

Hull said the 10-point note merely brought together the general principles on which the United States had been insisting since diplomatic talks began with the Japanese six months earlier. He added that five of the ten points offered direct benefits to Japan.

"The only trouble with this note was that the Japanese were bent—if I hadn't noticed the presence of ladies here I'd say hell bent—on carrying ahead their military policy," the former cabinet member said grimly.

Played for Time
The November 26 note, Hull continued, was drafted and delivered after it was decided not to offer the Japanese a "modus vivendi," or temporary agreement.

Hull said that the State Department didn't want to say "no" and stop right there "when the Japanese presented on November 20, 1941, what he described as 'the most extreme' demands they had made in six months of diplomatic discussions.

"Our policy was not to say 'no'—it was not to remain silent," he said. "It was to grab at every straw x x x to give time for preparation to our army and navy and to our prospective Allies."

He said the form of a proposed temporary agreement was given consideration under which the American plan of peaceful cooperation would be discussed further. He said the Japanese were to be offered "a little chickenfeed" in this temporary agreement.

The proposal was not offered, he said, largely because of Chinese and British opposition. The Chinese, he added, made a "terrific attack" on the proposal and Prime Minister Churchill "went the whole distance" in contending that acceptance of the proposal by the Japanese would cause the collapse

LONDONERS ARE TIRED, WEARY AFTER BIG WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(P) World Traveler
London, Nov. 26—Well, just showing what a good prophet I am, here we are in London after flying the Atlantic, on the first leg of a world tour which we shall chronicle daily in this column.
Here I should report to you rather belatedly that when I speak of "we" I'm not employing the editorial pronoun. I have a partner—an energetic and capable young woman—who will work with me on this assignment. Now, now—get your tongues out of your cheeks and meet Mrs. Mackenzie. From here on it will be the two Macks.

Both of us have been combing the highways and byways of London since our arrival and our outstanding impression, apart from the battle-scars and terrible drabness, is that Britain's capital is very, very tired. Of course, some of the country districts probably don't register the same degree of weariness, but what is true in London undoubtedly is true of other localities which underwent the scourge of bombing.

See Weariness

This isn't snap judgement on our part, for we know our England and her people from many years of residence here. Everywhere you go in the capital you see strain and great weariness registered on drawn faces.

When I was here in 1942 there were strained faces, too, for the war was at its height. But then you didn't notice the weariness so much because everybody was going all out for victory and the dangers and thrills of battle kept the country keyed up. But with war's end there has come a tremendous letdown. My partner and I spent considerable time yesterday talking with strangers whom we met here and there, and a woman bus conductor summed the position up rather well for us.

"We are tired," she said—and her voice had that dead level which bespeaks intense weariness. "The war kept us going, but we thought that when peace came we should get relief from the hard times—but we haven't got it."

Reflect Tiredness

There was no bitterness in her tone—just tiredness which reflected the harsh privations which the people of this country still are enduring. Relief will come, but it's a good distance away as yet. The food isn't so good as it was when I was here in 1942, and such necessities as clothing and shoes are hard to get. Luxuries are a thing of the dim and distant past—except for the few folk who debase themselves by trading in the black market which persists despite the efforts of the law to abolish it.

One great reason why relief is slow in coming to the people of England is that the government is diverting a large measure of manufacturers to foreign trade in an effort to bolster John Bull's lean purse. Sir Stafford Cripps, chairman of the Board of Trade, has preached "austerity" so vigorously to the public that they call him Sir Austerity Cripps—a bit of humor which has a rather harsh connotation for the man in the street who has patches on his trousers.

Now don't get the wrong impression from what I've said. England is dog-tired, and more than a little disappointed because peace hasn't brought relief from the privations of war—but John Bull hasn't lost his fighting spirit. The situation as we see it here today reminds me of an incident I encountered in the first World War when I was attached to British General Headquarters in France as a war correspondent.

"Still Sticking It"

The Fifty-First British Division—I'm writing from memory—was subjected to a fierce attack by ten German divisions. The Fifty-First fought doggedly, pulling back foot by foot but not giving much ground. This went on for seven days and seven nights until the exhausted Tommies would drop in their tracks and fall asleep instantly when there was the slightest lull in the fighting.

At the end of the week the Germans sent over a little balloon which had attached to it a note written in English, presumably by an officer who had lived in Britain. It read: "Good old Fifty-First, still sticking it, Cheerio."

So it is with England today. It's mighty tired—but still sticking it.

TRUMAN FOOLS PRESS ON TRIP TO SEE MOTHER

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Nov. 26 (P)—President Truman and his family have staked out a claim to a little privacy sometimes when they go avist-ing.

Mr. Truman himself was back in the White House after what began as a secret flight to Grandview, Mo., and ended with a night landing at National airport here. He made the unheralded trip to visit his mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, on her 93rd birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, meanwhile, are visiting friends in New York, the identities of their hosts a closely guarded secret. They plan to attend tonight's opening of the Metropolitan opera season.

The President, up early yesterday and noting, he said, that it was a pretty day decided suddenly on the Grandview jaunt. Returning at 8:14 p. m. (EST), he told four reporters awaiting him at the airport.

Gives No Explanation

"I just took a notion to visit Grandview and see my mother on her birthday, and I did, just as I used to do."

A reporter suggested that newspapers might be upset "that the President flies half way across the country and back again without any coverage," and asked if the President had "any explanation."

"I don't need to give an explanation," Mr. Truman replied. "I don't intend to."

"Does this mean that the papers won't be represented on your future trips?" he was asked.

"No," he said, it didn't mean that. It meant, he said, "I wanted to go out to Grandview and see my mother. I just took a notion I'd go out and see her, and I did."

The President said he had "a good time" and that his mother "enjoyed herself immensely."

Breaks Precedent

The trip marked the first time in the memory of White House correspondents that a chief executive had traveled so far from Washington without some sort of advance press arrangements.

The late President Roosevelt did not take reporters along on some of his foreign war conferences or on some of his wartime week-end trips to Hyde Park, but newsmen were kept informed of his movements.

Neither Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, nor his assistant, Eben Ayers, were taken on the trip to Grandview.

Ross made the first announcement shortly before 5 p. m. after an Associated Press bulletin from Grandview had reported Mr. Truman's visit there. The President then already was on his way back to the capital.

BEAR SEASON OPENS TODAY

Harrisburg, Nov. 26 (P)—Seth Gordon, executive director of the Game Commission estimates there are 2,500 to 3,000 bears in Pennsylvania's woods today as the state's four-day bear season opens.

During the war years the annual bear kill was below average, explained Gordon.

As a result the bear population increased yearly until it has reached an all-time high for the state.

If the weather stays clear and moderate for the four days Gordon anticipates good hunting—providing the hunters go deep into the woods.

He advises that the hunters will find the game mostly in the rugged, mountainous, "northern tier" counties from the Poconos in the east to the counties of Forest and Warren in the west. In the south an occasional stray bear wanders in from the mountains of West Virginia and Maryland.

Gordon said the season was set later than usual this year in order to permit hunters to conserve gasoline by remaining in the woods for the bear season and being on hand for the deer season that opens on Saturday.

The hunting hours for bears are 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. (EST) on each of the four days, with an individual limited to one bear for the season and hunting parties of three or more may shoot two.

IRAN CHARGES AGAINST REDS STIR CONCERN

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Diplomatic News Editor)

Washington, Nov. 26 (P)—Allied diplomats here are taking an increasingly serious view of the situation developing between Russia and Iran over an uprising in the remote province of Azerbaijan.

Some fear it may present the United Nations with a critical test at the very outset of organized efforts to protect the peace and security of all nations.

The United States has moved cautiously into the situation by asking Russia for information about the activities of its armed forces in Azerbaijan.

Essentially the question is whether the Red army has prevented Iranian troops from acting effectively against the rebel bands and whether this involved violations of Iran's sovereignty.

Molotov Surprised

A Moscow dispatch last night quoted diplomatic quarters as saying that Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov during discussions with Iran's ambassador, Madjid Ahy, had given assurances that Russia would respect Iranian sovereignty.

The dispatch added that Molotov was said to have expressed surprise at Iranian contentions that Red army troops had refused free passage to Iranian forces in Azerbaijan.

Reporting that stories of Red Army interference had been described officially in Moscow as exaggerations, the dispatch went on to say it was understood that such progress had been made in the Molotov-Ahy conversations that a projected Iranian mission to Moscow had been cancelled.

Hope For Best

Washington officials obviously hoped these more optimistic reports would be borne out by Moscow's reply to the American note, and by later developments.

The fact remained, however, that the Iranians already have complained of restrictions on their freedom and independence and presumably may continue their complaints until the United Nations organization meets formally in London in January. At that time Iran would have an opportunity, if she still were of the same mind, to bring formal charges against Russia.

on sale includes some "pretty well-known blends."

The ration for individual purchasers in the next two weeks remains unchanged at one-fifth of a gallon. However, for the next two periods of two weeks each beginning December 10 and ending January 5, customers may buy a fifth and a pint.

Retail licenses may buy unlimited quantities of the unrationed whisky and up to 90 per cent of their normal needs of rationed brands.

While the ration periods have been shortened and the amount that may be purchased has been increased, there has been no indication when whisky rationing will be lifted entirely.

ARMY IS RATED TO BEAT NAVY BY FOUR GOALS

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—The collegiate football campaign winds up with a grand flourish Saturday when the all-conquering Army Cadets clash with Navy's formidable Midshipmen for the national championship.

The game of the year will find Army rated about a four touchdown favorite to make unbeaten but once-labeled Navy its 18th straight victim over a two-year period. The Greyhounds will be aiming to become the first West Point Team in history to go through two seasons without a tie or a loss.

About 105,000 fans, including President Truman, will pack Philadelphia's Franklin Field to see whether the Midshipmen, who finally began to click in their last two contests, can stop Army's touchdown wins—Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard—and crack the great Army forward wall.

While the Cadets and Midshipmen will be battling for the national title, the Trojans of Southern California and the Texas University Longhorns will strive to gain their respective conference nominations for the Rose and Cotton Bowls.

Rose Bowl Prelim

The Trojans must defeat U.C.L.A. to win the Pacific coast conference championship and the right to meet Alabama in the Pasadena classic. If the Trojans should lose, the Washington State Cougars, who finished their season Saturday with a 7-0 triumph over Washington, will grab the title. Southern California wall-poled Oregon State 34-7 in its last outing and has a 4-1 conference record. Washington State won six and lost two games.

The bowl pictures elsewhere began to shape up as the Orange Bowl committee selected Holy Cross and the Sun Bowl named New Mexico as one of its teams. Army and Duke both declared themselves out of any post-season games but the bowl committees had plenty to choose from among Oklahoma A. and M., St. Mary's of California, Tennessee, Virginia, Temple, Tulsa, Louisiana State, Denver, and Georgia.

First Big Ten Title

The Pacific coast and Southwest conference races were the only sectional championships remaining to be decided as Indiana earned its first Big Ten title by wall-popping Purdue 26-0; Duke repeated in the southern conference by nipping North Carolina 14-7; Pennsylvania clinched Ivy League honors by mauling Cornell 59-6 and Missouri won the Big Six pennant by trouncing Kansas 33-12. Denver captured the Big Seven crown by defeating Colorado Thursday.

Alabama and Oklahoma A. and M., who earlier in the season clinched the southeastern and Missouri Valley conference titles, maintained their perfect records Saturday while Virginia suffered its first defeat. As Maryland won 19-13.

HOGAN IS TIED WITH M'SPADEN

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 26 (AP)—A top bracket money winner of the winter golfing circuit and a Pennsylvania sharpshooter faced each other today in the playoff of the $10,000 Montgomery Invitational tournament.

Shooting for first place money of $2,000 in victory bonds were Harold (Jug) McSpaden, pro from Sanford, Me., and belting Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., veteran.

Tourney officials scheduled the playoff over the Beauvoir Country club's 18-hole course for 1:30 p. m. (CST). Second prize money of $1,333 was earmarked for the loser.

The two were locked in a 282-tie at the end of yesterday's final round. McSpaden, in fifth place with five others when the round began, shot a sizzling 67 to gain a tie with Hogan.

Cellar-Dwellers Pick On Leaders

(By The Associated Press)

The New Haven Eagles and St. Louis Flyers, cellar-dwellers of the eastern and western division, respectively, of the American hockey league, have served notice that they no longer intend to act as doormats for the rest of the circuit.

The Eagles picked on no less than the western sectional leaders, the Indianapolis Capitals, to show their newly found vigor by trouncing the first placers 3-2 last night.

The Flyers climbed to within one point of third place Cleveland by defeating the Barons 3-1.

Playing their best game of the season, the Providence Reds won an easy 6-2 decision over the Buffalo Bisons.

The second place Bisons, trailing the leading Hershey Bears by three points, play host to New Haven Wednesday. Also that night the Bears travel to Pittsburgh to meet the Hornets.

MONDAY MATINEE

The University of Miami has the Ghaul to bid for an Orange Bowl spot vs. Holy Cross. The Ghaul (first name Harry) has scored touchdowns in all but one of Miami's games this fall and won that by kicking the point after a touchdown. . . . When Lee Carey of Tucson, Ariz., high school ran 90, 61 and 51 yards for scores against Phoenix, his mother's explanation of his speed was "deer meat." Lee's dad had shot a buck and provided a venison dinner before the game.

EAGLES, SKINS BOTH IN RACE FOR PLAYOFFS

By JIMMY JORDAN

Chicago, Nov. 26 (AP)—Right now, if the season's records mean anything, it looks like the Philadelphia Eagles and Cleveland Rams may meet in the National football league playoff for the world's professional grid title December 16.

Cleveland is in. That's definite. But Philadelphia's chances of meeting the Rams still are a bit shaky.

The Eagles can be beaten out of the playoff game by the Washington Redskins, although they dumped Sammy Baugh & Co., 16-0, yesterday.

In fact, Washington actually is in a better spot to win the eastern division title than Philadelphia. The two teams are tied for the eastern division lead with six wins and two losses each. The Eagles still must meet fourth place New York and the third place Boston Yanks, in the next two weeks. Washington meets last-place Pittsburgh and New York.

However, the Eagles have statistical proof of their superiority, and if they can convince New York and Boston of that, they may reach the title finale. They've scored 216 points and have allowed but 98 in their eight games. Washington has scored 168 and allowed 121.

The champion Green Bay Packers did all their scoring in two quarters to take a 23-14 victory from New York.

In the only other game of the day, the Chicago Bears rolled up the biggest yardage of the season—and fourth biggest in league history—as they defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28-7. The Bears marked up 243 yards as Sid Luckman completed 13 of 22 passes, and 282 yards from rushing for a total of 525 yards.

STRAY GOLDFISH

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 26 (AP)—Patrolman Ace Gunderson says a goldfish, bowl and all, "wandered" downtown and parked near a public drinking fountain in front of the police station. The owner can have the goldfish, says Gunderson—if he can describe it and explain how it got to the police station.

TWO FRESHMEN MAKE BIG TEN ALL-STAR TEAM

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Nov. 26 (AP)—The spirited competition of the western conference football race was reflected today in the 1945 all-big ten team selected for the Associated Press by league coaches, although Indiana and Ohio State landed three berths each.

Northwestern was awarded two positions and Michigan, Purdue and Wisconsin one each in the poll of the nine conference mentors, who failed to agree on a single unanimous choice.

Closest the coaches came to seeing eye-to-eye was on two players—End Max Morris, Northwestern's versatile star, and Ohio State's great guard, Warren Amling. Each missed only one first team ballot for 17 of 18 possible votes.

The monor team, averaging 20 years in age and uniquely equipped with a backfield matching the line in average heft at 197 pounds, included two first-year performers. They were Halfback George Tallafarro, Indiana's stellar negro freshman, and Guard James Lecture, an aerial gunner veteran of 67 combat missions over Europe before he enrolled at Northwestern.

In addition to Tallafarro, the all-star backfield included Pete Pihos of Indiana, another returned war hero; Ed (Catfoot) Cody of Purdue and Ollie Cline of Ohio State, a bruising quartet with power and speed to burn.

Watts at Center

Paired with Morris at end was Ted Kluszewski of Indiana, who nosed out another Hoosier wingman, Bob Ravensberg. Ohio State's Russ Thomas, 223-pound senior, and Wisconsin's string-bean scrapper, Clarence Esser, who packs only 174 pounds on a six-foot, one-inch frame, were the tackle choices.

The center post went by a wide margin to Harold Watts, 175-pound Michigan veteran.

Colombia gained her independence from Spain in 1819.

The sucre is the unit of currency in Ecuador.

LEHIGH UPSET BY LAFAYETTE

Philadelphia, Nov. 26 (AP)—College football in Pennsylvania reached the end of the 1945 trail Saturday.

The last day of cheering crowds, blocks and tackles brought victory—at last—to win-starved Lafayette. The Maroon until Saturday, had not won a game all year, losing six times and tying once, but Lafayette salvaged a disastrous record by upsetting the Lehigh Engineers 7-0 in the 81st meeting between the state's most ancient rivals.

Bright clouds shone also for Clark Shaughnessy's hapless Pittsburgh Panthers. But for Penn State, toppled unexpectedly 7-0 by the Panthers the last curtain on the grid season was not a happy one. The Nittany Lions, dreaming of a bowl game on New Year's Day, saw their hopes vanish a week ago when Michigan State drubbed them 33-6. Saturday the clawless Pitt eleven added the finishing touches.

Pitt, beaten five times straight and unable to score even once in its last three encounters, was expected to be mangled by the Nittany Lion eleven. Instead, the T-powered Panthers struck quickly for seven points then staved off every Penn State offensive threat to win.

The University of Pennsylvania pulled an Army stunt on Cornell and rode the crest of a 56-6 victory. The Quakers had been pummeled unmercifully by the Army, 61-0, a week previous—but they showed no lack of power in rolling up touchdowns against their Ivy league opponent to clinch the mythical title.

Swarthmore, many of its starters sidelined with injuries, invaded the ballcock of the Atlantic City Naval Air Station and absorbed a 33-6 shellacking.

That was all the football there was. Seventeen other colleges had ended schedules in previous weeks.

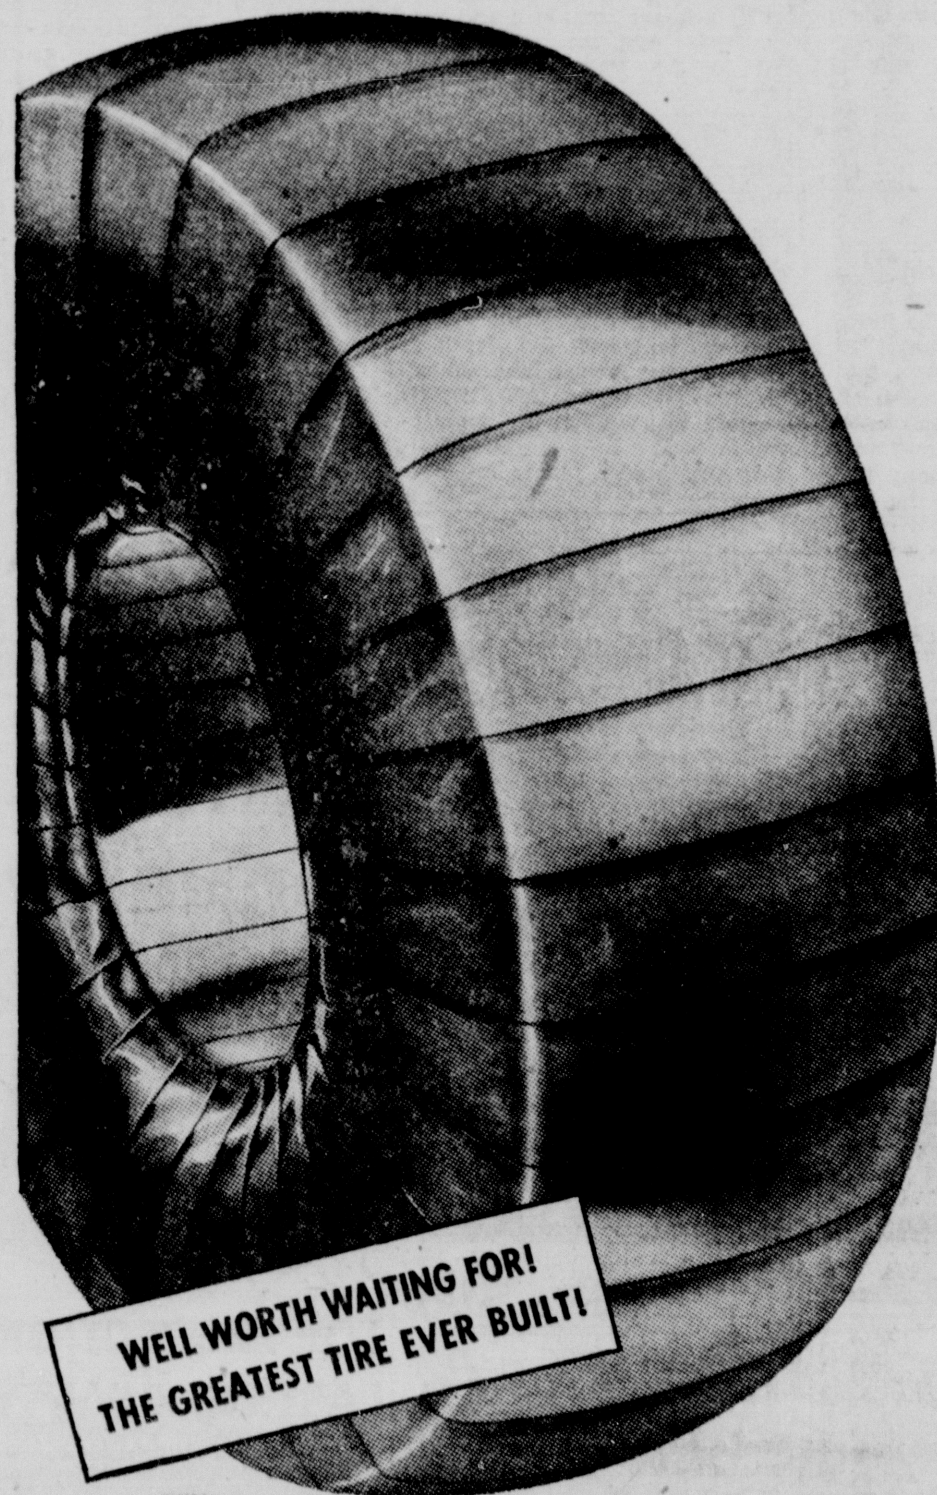

Chile has an area of 288,396 square miles.

Wait for the New General! THE GREATEST TIRE EVER BUILT!

Meanwhile, make your present tires last! Your General Dealer has the definite Plan available to you now!

As soon as rubber restrictions are lifted, General will present—proudly and without qualification—to the car owners of America the greatest tire ever built!

It will be well worth waiting for! Already thoroughly tested, the new General is ready to go into production as soon as—but not before—the finest natural rubber is again available and government restrictions permit the use of more natural rubber in passenger car sizes. The present allowance is only a little more than an ounce. This increase should come soon, if the government releases only a small part of the crude rubber stockpile now on hand.

Then, General will build into this new tire all the extra performance its advanced design makes possible and bring you the complete satisfaction you would expect of a tire designed to enhance General's famed Top-Quality reputation.

Even when our dwindling stockpile of natural rubber was one of America's most potentially dangerous wartime shortages, tire manufacturers were permitted to use 30% natural rubber in truck tires, because the military recognized that a certain percent of crude rubber is absolutely necessary for satisfactory tire performance. With 30% natural rubber and 70% synthetic, General is building the best truck tires ever built, proving that all that is needed to get the same performance from passenger car tires is a small amount of natural rubber.

All during the war, General was a large producer of synthetics and its research produced a number of important developments.

But, synthetic passenger car tires, while they have served during the era of 35-mile-an-hour top speed, do not represent even the starting point for the kind of tire that General wants to produce... and will soon!

Meanwhile, we have a definite Plan available to keep your present tires serviceable and guarantee you priority delivery of the new Generals as soon as they are available.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HOME COMING

In those bitter war-time years
There were faces stained with tears
In the crowds that stood about
As the trains were pulling out.

Then I dreaded looking on Till the last of them was gone.
For I knew what parting means
And the sorrow of such scenes.

But it's different today.
At the station all is gay.
Very joyous is the din
As the trains are pulling in.

Now I stand about and share
In the rapture that is there.
Glad the depot, floor to dome,
As the boys are coming home.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HISTORY

Never has a knowledge of history been so important as now. More people have been studying the maps of the world, and especially maps of the countries that war has affected, than ever before. This fact is interesting, but the historic background of the world is far more important.

A knowledge of the people of a country is essential to an intelligent understanding of the news that fills our publications from time to time —in fact, almost daily. It's misunderstanding that causes most wars and most disputes.

World history, or universal history, is a most fascinating study.
We begin to understand a great deal
after we have learned the beginnings and developments of a nation and its people. Every intelligent person should take pride in his knowledge of European and American history.
English history should be read by every American as a background to his own history.

Few novels are as intriguing and as revealing as a good history. All life seems to unfold as the pages of a history are read. People have been living a very long time on this earth, and it will amaze anyone to learn about the unfolding of each epoch.

We look upon China, for example, as a backward nation, and it is very true, but in many ways it was more civilized a thousand years ago than most nations that boast of civilization today. In wisdom and artistic triumphs China has not ever been excelled today. China has created some of the greatest art in the world, and its poets and philosophers are famous.

I have been reading a history of Russia, which the author has traced back over a thousand years. It is a most revealing story, written by the famous writer "Saki" (H. H. Munro).
It is a very rare book, unfortunately,
having been written, or rather published, in 1900 in London. But the extent of the early Russian Empire would surprise many a person today.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Echoing Heart."

Swimming Star Weds Announcer

Hollywood, Nov. 26 (AP)—Esther Williams, who is an old fashioned girl despite her modern figure, was married to Radio Announcer Ben Gage last night, in a simple, family ceremony.

The bathing beauty and swimming star, who wore a street-length gown of pale pink crepe, was married before a small group of the families and close friends at the Westwood Hills Congregational church.

The wedding reception at the home of the matron of honor, Mrs. J. K.
McElowney, was more in the Hollywood vein. Two hundred friends, including Sonny Tufts, Lana Turner with Bob Hutton, Alan Ladd, Lt.
(j.g.) Gene Kelly, and Jean Pierre Aumont, dropped in to drink champagne and munch turkey sandwiches.

The couple left for a Mexican honeymoon.

BARE BRANCHES REVEAL WHERE PRUNING NEEDED

During the winter and early spring when the leaves have fallen from most of our shrubs, the remaining framework of the branches reveals many faults which were not easily detected while the plants were in full leaf says the New York Herald-Tribune. Dead branches, diseased and injured ones, as well as obviously superfluous, stand out clearly. Wood too old to serve any useful purpose also is readily detected. Shrubs which are pruned regularly once a year may need but little attention, but others which were neglected for several growing seasons will require considerable pruning to reshape and rejuvenate them.

Badly neglected shrubs should receive severe pruning during the dormant season, no matter when they bloom. This may mean removal of considerable blooming wood, but it is wiser to forgo a full flower display for one season than to let the faults persist. Otherwise, only those which produce their main flower display on the new wood which will grow during the coming spring and summer should be pruned during the winter. The best time to prune the spring bloomers is soon after they have finished their display next spring.

Keep Plants Symmetrical
To attack any specimen with the pruning shears without first surveying it from a distance is likely to result in a bad job. Stand off far enough to get a full view to determine how much wood should be removed to leave a well balanced and symmetrical framework for the coming season. Keep this picture well in mind, stepping back again and again to check on the correct progress of the work.

Long straggly shoots which need cutting back require special attention, particularly if they interfere with the view from windows or the porch. Keep in mind that because of their vigor they will develop equally strong side shoots from the uppermost bud, so that they should be shortened well below the upper limit of the specimen.

Always make the cuts just above a bud or eye, preferably pointing away from the center, unless the latter is thin and needs better coverage. Old wood is best cut back to the soil level if there are

Wise Steps With House Plants

Soak new clay pots in water for a few hours before using them in order to prevent their absorption of soil moisture. Scrub used pots thoroughly before using them again. There is a theory among house plant growers that plants do better in old pots.

As a general rule flowering plants like at least some sunshine daily enough younger shoots to provide for a bushy habit.

Buddleia or Butterfly Bush should be cut back to within two of three feet from the soil level, with a more drastic pruning in the spring when the new shoots become visible. The shrubby hydrangeas are cut back severely to remove all growth made during the previous season except for short spurs with one or two buds to each. The arborescent grandiflora species often identified as Agee may be cut right down to the soil surface to remove last season's growth.

Light Thinning for Althaea
Althaea requires a light thinning to get rid of crossed and spindly branches. Anthony Waterer Spiraea, with its dense growth of branches, will welcome a severe thinning that eliminates one-half of the last season's growth. Late-flowering Tamarix varieties may be cut back to the soil level, unless they represent older specimens which have assumed tree proportions, when a severe cut-back of the tops should be employed.

Snowberry (symphoricarpos albus) and beauty berry (Callicarpa purpuria) will be best if all old wood is removed, since it is the new branches which will carry the berries for next season. Abelia, acanthopanax, Clethra, Hamamelis, lonicera, viburnum and weigelia are pruned lightly, if at all. The indigo bush (amorphia fruticosa), St. John's-wort (Hypericum), bush clover (despedeza) and smooth sumac grown for a dwarf thick effect are pruned to within a few inches of the soil level. Cut off any long straggling branches from the fire-thorn (pyracantha) and others which cross. Wait until the new sprouts appear in the spring on the chaste tree (Virex macrophylla) before pruning but cut off now any flower-spikes which have not been removed before.

Every poultry owner should have one of our handy cost reckoners. They are printed on durable paper and will last for several years. Here is how they work: Knowing the cost of poultry feed per 100 pounds and the number of eggs your hens lay each day, you merely place a ruler across the chart at the proper place to learn the feed costs per dozen and also the price at which the eggs must be sold to realize an over-all profit on feed, investment and labor. ## Perennials Need Care For Winter

Mulch the newly planted perennial border after the ground freezes to maintain even soil temperature and to protect the plants from the effects of alternate freezing and thawing.

On warm, sunny days, ventilate the cold frame in which plants are being stored over winter.

When the ground is about to freeze, earth up the rose bushes with a mound of soil eight to ten inches high.

Give newly planted trees and shrubs a mulch of half-rotted leaves over the roots for winter protection.

Plant Bulbs Now

Set out bird-feeding stations in a warm, sheltered spot, but sufficiently in the open to eliminate the danger of attack from cats.

November and December are the to withstand the rigors of daily "rains." In few cases are plants native to regions where a light shower occurs every morning. Many growers should cease the injurious habit of sprinkling plants every day.

Plant leaves have pores through which an important process of growth operates. Allowing these pores to become clogged with dust is not unlike shutting a human being or animal in a small air-tight compartment. Death or serious injury from suffocation is the result. Therefore, house plants need a bath occasionally. This may be done by a light syringing.

Regular florist or greenhouse potted loam is best for most indoor plants. If this cannot be obtained, growers should choose a fertile fence row or garden loam. When soils are too heavy they should be lightened with peat moss or leaf-mold. Of course, sand is beneficial in this role but adds no organic matter. Sometimes both sand and leafmold or peat moss make an excellent soil lightener.

Newly planted trees should be wrapped with burlap from the ground up to the first branches. Wrap wire netting around young fruit trees to protect them against mice and rabbits.

Orlando May Be Italian Premier

Rome, Nov. 26 (AP)—Vittorio Emanuel Orlando, 85-year-old statesman and member of the Big Four of World War I, today was reported attempting to resolve Italy's govern-ment crisis, amid widespread re-ports he might be offered the premiership.

Orlando, a former premier and still vigorous despite his age, is known to be acceptable to the powerful Christian Democratic party as well as to the Right Wing Liberals and the Labor Democrats. Should the Communist Party agree to enter a government headed by him, ob-servers believed a cabinet could be formed quickly.

Orlando, colleague of Woodrow Wilson, David Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau in the writing of the peace after World War I, con-ferred for 45 minutes yesterday with Crown Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm. Associates said he would continue his attempts to iron out the disagreements which resulted Saturday in the resignation of Premier Ferruccio Parri.

TRUMAN WARNED ON WAR POWERS

By CLAIR JOHNSON

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—President Truman received a reminder today that Congress wants to rescind soon the broad powers it granted the White House as a war-time neces-sity.

The reminder came from the House Judiciary committee even as it agreed to a six-months' extension of the second war powers act, now due to expire December 31.

"During our preparations for an adequate national defense and while the shooting part of the war was on, the Congress of necessity had to grant extraordinary powers," the committee said.

"Now that we have won back much of our safety and peace, it is the determination of Congress to re-capture those powers as speedily as may be wise, for the people, so that they may be again exercised in ac-cordance with the slower but more

Raise $23,232 For Sightless Veteran

York, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—Twenty-five-year-old Sgt. Curtis Sechrist knows residents of York county have a heart.

The statements were contained in a report which the committee has approved but not yet released offi-cially. A copy was made available to a reporter.

Although urging the abolition soon of most war powers, the report said continuation of some — such as rationing and priority controls—is needed to "assure an orderly liquida-tion of our war-time economy and a speedy reconversion."

The community, by voluntary con-tributions, raised $23,232.66 for Se-christ, who lost the sight of both eyes during the battle for Metz when German rifle fire ripped up his face. Removal of bullets also necessitated amputation of his nose.

The money will be used to provide a completely furnished home for the Silver Star-decorated sergeant and his wife, buy a seeing-eye dog, and establish a trust fund for permanent upkeep of the home.

Sechrist is now a patient at Valley Forge General hospital, Phoenix-ville, Pa.

The Fourth Mrs. Baker

By Ernestine Adams AP Newfeatures

Chapter 12

(Sunday 1:03 p. m. to 5:37 p. m.)
Moore was alone and looked rather wild when he took off his hat.

"I can't find him nowhere. He musta skipped."
"Why didn't you call up and tell us instead of coming up here?" Jerry demanded angrily. "You know damn well you've been followed."

"It was madam's orders."

"Yeah. You want to give the police a line without cracking. You probably picked up a trail just so they'd know Mrs. Baker was here. If you can't do better than that I'll sell 'em a job on you that'll stick."

Moore's fleshy jaw shook and he ran the back of his hand across his mouth.

"Honest, Mr. Hayes, I never thought I'd be more careful next time. Honest, I will, I never done it but them cops are after me till I can't think."

Jerry had cooled down when he answered.

"Okay. Get back home and stay there and watch out for Mrs. Baker or I'll have your gizzard."

Moore didn't wait. He clamped his hat on and slipped out the door.

"I never trusted that dope. Watch him, Julia." He came back and sat down again.

"Hank must have got the wind up. If the police don't find him no one is going to spill that rescue story."

"Jerry, there is something else. Robey was planning a coup last night. Do you know what it was?"

The fingers around her glass were white as she waited for his answer. A lock of hair had fallen over his forehead and he appeared to be weighing how much he should tell her.

"He must have given you some hint," she persisted.

"What he said was crazy. It couldn't have meant anything."

"What was it, Jerry?"

"He said he was having four Mrs. Bakers."

"Three," she corrected.

"He said four." He raised his eyes to hers. "And Virginia's life is an open column."

"Perhaps he meant to marry her next," she said slowly. "He was engaged to Grace before he divorced Alma."

She stood up and pulled on her gloves.

"I have to go. I'll call if anything happens."

Jerry rose and looked down at her, his lanky shoulders dropped forward.

"Oh, Jerry! I'm not guilty. They won't arrest me."

"Won't they? You are an innocent. You are the only one in the bunch who hasn't some pretty powerful friends. You're perfect for the casting. Can't you see? Designing Cinderella marries the Prince for fame and money. She dumps the Prince out the window and keeps the coin."

"All right. I'll be dumb."

When the taxi drew near her apartment house she saw the place was surrounded by curiosity seekers and reporters.

In the crushing bedlam that followed her appearance in front of the building she was finally rescued by Inspector Venable. He took her by one arm and another man, squat and heavy with thick gray eyebrows, took the other. In the elevator Venable introduced him as Police Commissioner Hickerson.

The two hours that followed up in the library left Julia in horrified bewilderment. She tried to answer their questions calmly but they hammered at her until her voice rose in replies that sounded hysterical. Venable said little but the Commissioner and two other men took turns throwing questions at her with implied meaning which she was too confused to grasp. A stenographer worked quietly back of her and the fact that her words were being recorded added further to her panic.

"I think that's enough for now," she heard Venable say at last. Crushed as she felt, she noticed the stony glance the Commissioner turned on him.

But they did go and leave her. Moore brought a tray of food to her bedroom where she lay on the chaise longue. There was soup and salad and crusty toast. She felt better after she had eaten. She rang for Moore.

"Moore, when you take the tray back, stay in the kitchen and warn me if any one comes in the back."

"Yes, madam."

As soon as he had left she went into the salon and walked to the fireplace. Quickly she took out the glass coals that lay in the silver net of the circular hole and piled them on one of the nearby sofas. She picked out a small piece of paper that had rested flat against the bottom of the fireplace.

Scarcely glancing at it she stuck it in the top of a stocking and hastily laid the coals back in the net. In spite of her care they made a tinkling sound like the one she had heard the night Robey came back from meeting the woman in the red hat.

Not until she was back in her room did she look at her prize. At first she wore a puzzled frown. It was a piece about four inches square which had been torn on the left side and the bottom.

"This is to certify that," read the old English type. Then written in prelate script:

"Robert C. Baker and Adelaide Campbell"

The only other words were in type again:

"Have This Day Been Joined in Holy Matrimony"

On the side were the figures "5-8-32" in pencil, evidently what Robey had put there and seemed to be the date of the marriage, she supposed.

For a long time she sat there. She wondered why there was any secrecy about a marriage when Robey had had several and had made no effort to conceal any of them. Then she realized that one thing could make the marriage important—if Adelaide Campbell was alive and there had been no divorce.

MOTOR STRIKE MIGHT AFFECT 175 MORE SHOPS

Detroit, Nov. 26 (P)—Asserting the need "is more acute now" in view of a far-reaching strike, the CIO United Automobile Workers today repeated its request to General Motors Corp. for negotiation of the wage dispute before federal conciliators and the public.

While awaiting the corporation's reply, the Union's International executive board opened a two-day meeting here at which the General Motors strike was certain to receive considerable attention.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president, said the request for further negotiations had been withheld pending the company's formal rejection of an arbitration proposal that came Friday.

One of the problems facing the UAW executive board was to determine how currently non-striking union members could best serve the striker's cause.

In other connection the board planned to discuss a proposal that tool and die workers affiliated with Amalgamated remain on the job but refuse to work on materials intended for General Motors.

Such action, to be brought up at a mass meeting of the tool and die workers Tuesday night, might affect 175 shops and would further delay GM's return to production of five lines of cars and numerous other products.

Union officials predicted nearly a quarter of a million workers in 20 states would be idle before another day was over, including some 175,000 production workers and 73,000 salaried employees prevented by pickets from entering GM offices.

A spokesman for the automotive parts industry said all car production eventually would be halted because of the ramifications of the General Motors strike.

As the effects of the strike became more widespread, both sides awaited government intervention.
